

Why Listening is Important

Listening to someone shows respect to them.

Listening to someone helps them heal.

Listening to someone makes us a better person.

Listening to someone creates a more peaceful energy.

Listening to someone quiets their fears.

Listening to someone puts an end to their loneliness.

Listening to someone is learning from someone.

Listening to someone today makes us wiser tomorrow.

Listening to someone must not be a pretense.

Listening to someone does not mean we necessarily believe them.

Listening to someone unfolds many truths.

Listening to someone opens the door for us to be listened to.

Listening to someone must also be seeing someone.

Listening to someone births a better understanding of the situation.

Listening to someone shows our genuine caring.

Listening to someone eliminates our self-indulgence and selfishness.

Listening to someone is contagious.

Listening to someone is hearing their heart and our own.